

VIVA makes 'work from home' a reality.

WHY HOME WORKER ?

41 million corporate employees worldwide are spending at least one day a week tele-working, and 100 million work from home at least one day a month.

- Gartner Research titled 'Teleworking The Quiet Revolution'

- Are your stakeholders questioning your real estate and infrastructure investments? With the planned investments, it would at least take about 3 years for you to break-even
- Your employees spend close to 180 minutes everyday in commuting and some key resources are opting for voluntary separation as it is taking a toll on their health and personal lives
- Your customer is located in a different time zone and your resources extend their work schedules to home and they need a virtual office set-up for them to keep their schedules flexible
- You as an organization want to retain your valued employees who have issues like commuting difficulties, childcare conflict, disabilities and geographical barriers

VALUE PROPOSITION

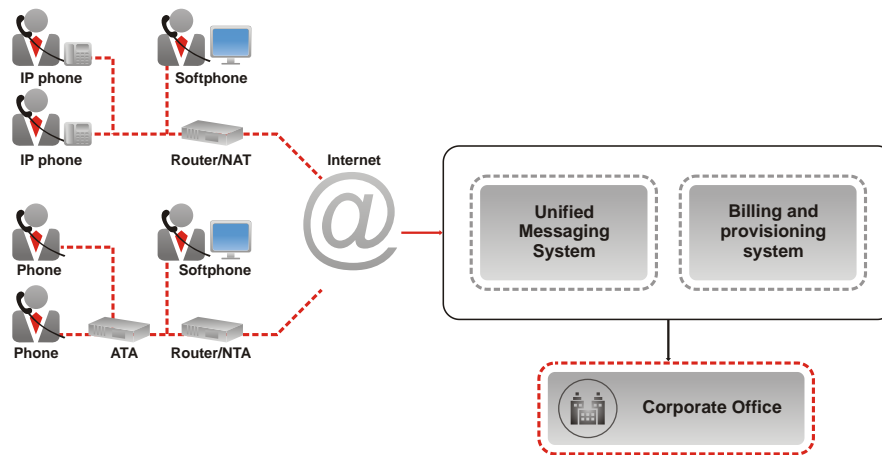

An increasing number of businesses are using technology to satisfy workers' demands for a better work-life balance by allowing flexible work schedules with the option to work from home or telecommute. Apart from work-life balance, situations like dealing with traffic and rising fuel costs are feeding the growth of working from home options.

The upside to this are the corporate benefits such as reduced costs on office space, utilities and taxes, as well as boosting employee morale and productivity

VIVA offers home-worker solutions to organizations through the usage of flexible technologies that allow people to work from home as well as from a remote environment.

HOW VIVA SOLUTION WORKS

VIVA Home Worker Solution can connect departments, building, branch offices and telecommuters by voice over the same wire and through the same broadband service provider that the company already uses for its data connection.

Our solutions include fully hosted PBX/Centrex functionality that can make any remote IP phone or any remote POTS phone connected via an integrated access device, a virtual replica to those in the corporate office complete with full support for such features as extension dialing, hunt groups, and attendant support.

This means home workers; mobile workers and small offices can get many advanced voice services not available from conventional phone systems.
